

TAFT STARTS OUT TO GET THE NEWS

Goes to Cincinnati to Hear of His Nomination.

NOT-MUCH FUSS IN NEW YORK

Candidate Gets a Hurry-up Haircut and Is Hardly Recognized as He Gets His Ticket Punched at the Forty-second Street Depot—"Good-by, Bill," Makes Gatekeeper Turn.

New York, July 24.—William H. Taft left here on the Lake Shore Limited from the Grand Central Station to-night at 5:30 o'clock for Cincinnati to be officially notified that he is nominated. The train is due to arrive at its destination at 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Mr. Taft made no appointments for to-day, but so many politicians called, mostly city district leaders, that he had hard work squeezing out enough time to edit the proofs of his Cincinnati speech.

Among the callers were William Scarborough, vice president of Wilberforce University, and Charles W. Anderson, a negro, collector of internal revenue.

Saw a Steam Roller.

Mr. Taft got up shortly after 8 o'clock and walked up to the Plaza Hotel, where he had breakfast with his brother Henry. Then, shortly after 10 o'clock, the two sauntered back by way of Fifth avenue. A steam roller was pointed out to the pair, and Mr. Taft, the nominee, remarked that steam rollers were a mighty good thing sometimes. Once the Manhattan Hotel was reached, they went to Mr. Taft's rooms, on the third floor, looking over Madison avenue at the Forty-second street end.

Mr. Taft peeled off his coat. Then the smiling nominee began seeing people. Mr. Taft had something different to tell everybody, and listened attentively to what they had to say. He said that in all likelihood he would not be back in New York until after the campaign, though he would not like to have to go on oath to that effect. He could not tell just what might happen. Mrs. Taft, he said, was in Hot Springs, but he would not be surprised if she turned up to-morrow in Cincinnati. He could not talk about the Standard Oil decision reversal.

He told the newspaper men there was not anything new and nothing to say about his visit to the President except that it was exceedingly satisfactory.

Things did not begin to happen until 5 o'clock, a half hour before train time. Then Monro, Mr. Taft's Filipino valet, was put to work packing the grips. Henry Taft came in time to be of good service. At 5:15 Mr. Taft took the reins actively in hand and called up the barber shop.

Got a Quick Haircut.

"Can you send up a barber that will cut my hair in ten minutes?" Mr. Taft said over the wire. "No, I don't mean in ten minutes. He must come in a great hurry. The job's got to be done in ten minutes. Oh, this is Mr. Taft—William Taft. Let's see what the room number is (aside—Henry, what is this room number?) Yes, 154. Thank you. Good-by."

The barber must have ascended by balcony. He got there so quick with his tools, the hair flew fast. Mr. Taft admitted that. Goodness knows he needed the trimming, and he was all barbered up and leaving the room at 5:23. Two central office detectives were on hand to walk to the station, but at the critical minute Monro disappeared. All he has to do is to take care of Mr. Taft's clothes, but that is a big job, and it looked as if the train was to be missed rather than the diminutive Filipino. He turned up after Mr. Taft had made a tour about the rooms. The party left the hotel through Forty-second street and started for the station a block away.

Few in Crowd Knew Him.

There was the usual crowd of people bound for suburban trains, but nobody seemed to recognize the distinguished visitor as he walked down the street. Possibly a hundred persons around the gate to the entrance to the train recognized the candidate, and various salutations were given him. He acknowledged these rather hastily and got busy fumbling for his ticket.

"Bill, I guess I'll have to say good-by; I'm afraid these people won't let me through the gate," said Henry Taft. But the word "Bill" was magnetic with the gatekeeper, and he passed the speaker through without a blink and held every body else back.

Mr. Taft got his ticket punched, and after shaking hands with the gatekeeper, he stepped onto the platform to the waiting train. The conductor shook hands with him, saying, "Thought you had gone back on us."

"No, no," Mr. Taft replied. "Let 'er go."

The candidate shouted out, laughingly, "All aboard for Cincinnati!" and waved his arms. This, in turn, got to the engineer by relays. He acknowledged it with a fancy whistle salute and the big train pulled slowly out of the station as Mr. Taft made his way to his stateroom on the sleeper. He had gotten aboard on time to the minute.

ALL READY AT CINCINNATI.

But It's Going to Cost Committee
About $10,000 to Notify Mr. Taft.

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 24.—The general committee on preparations for the celebration of Taft's nomination day, next Tuesday, announced to-day that practically all arrangements were completed. These arrangements include provision for promptly footing all bills, which will not reach less than $10,000.

Notification was received to-day that large marching organizations would be present from St. Louis and Chicago with bands. Cleveland, Toledo, Indianapolis, Louisville, and other near-by cities had already announced the coming of big delegations and organizations of marchers for the parade.

There will be at least three organizations of negroes in the parade. It was stated definitely to-day that Senator Foraker would not attend, no reason being announced, however, for his absence. The work of decorating the streets is under way, and the decorations will be lavish.

CANNON FAVORS HOPKINS.

But Wants Fox, His Opponent, Returned as Representative.

Chicago, July 24.—Speaker Cannon to-day gave out a statement at the Union League Club, expressing his preference for Senator Albert J. Hopkins for reelection over his opponent, Representative George E. Foss, and also intimating that he hoped Mr. Foss himself might be returned as a member of the House from the Tenth district.

The speaker based his decision on the fact that Senator Hopkins is now a member of the Senate Committee on Finance, which has to do with tariff and financial legislation, which, he said, was an important assignment, in view of the platform pledge of the party.

After professing his friendship for Representative Foss, and indicating that he had himself three times, as speaker, appointed him chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, Mr. Cannon said: "I believe he can serve the people of the State of Illinois and the whole country better as a member of the House of Representatives and as chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs than he can elsewhere."

DEFER NOTIFYING SHERMAN.

Vice Presidential Candidate Will Be Informed in Mid-August.

Utica, N. Y., July 24.—The formal notification of Representative Sherman of his nomination for Vice President, by the committee of delegates appointed at the Chicago convention, will not take place until the middle of August.

It was the intention to formally notify the candidate about August 1, but it has been decided to delay the event. The notification will take place in this city.

Mr. Sherman has not yet undertaken the task of preparing his letter and speech of acceptance, and he will not turn to the preparation of them until within a few days before the arrival of the committee. He has not given any information along what lines he will talk and write, but he will have something to say about the platform adopted at the Chicago convention, and he may incorporate some of his own views of national matters in his speech and letter of acceptance.

It was stated at the Sherman home this afternoon that the published report that Mr. Sherman would make an extended speaking tour through Nebraska in October was fiction, that nothing had been decided yet as to when and where Mr. Sherman would speak.

Mr. Sherman is recuperating and gaining his strength rapidly.

STOKES CONSENTS TO RUN.

Rich Man Accepts Nomination by Socialists for New York Assembly.

New York, July 24.—J. G. Phelps Stokes was not at the meeting of the Socialist party in the Eighth assembly district, held to-night on the second floor of 315 Grand street, but he sent a telegram, which was applauded, consenting to be a candidate for the State assembly on the Socialist ticket.

Mr. Stokes was nominated more than a week ago, and was notified by letter at his summer home in Connecticut, but that he would run was not certain until just before the meeting to-night, when a messenger boy climbed the stairs with the dispatch.

WOMEN VOTE IN MARYLAND

Fair Sex Help to Kill Proposed
$40,000 Bond Issue.

Annapolis Ladies Learn How to Make Cross-mark, but Regret
Not Signing Ballots.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Annapolis, Md., July 24.—In the two-day special election held to-night, the taxpayers of Annapolis rejected the proposed issue of $40,000 of municipal bonds, provided for by an enabling act of the last legislature.

The election was marked by the first voting of women in the history of Annapolis. Their exercise of the right of franchise was attended by many amusing incidents, but, on the whole, they made few mistakes, after the intricacies of making a cross mark and where to put it to express their preference had been explained to them. The one decidedly peculiar feature of ballot-marking, to the feminine mind, was that there was no place for them to sign their names.

The voting was very light only about 24 ballots being cast out of 1,100 qualified taxpayers. Of these, possibly 100 voters were women.

Two issues of bonds were voted on. One for $30,000 for street improvement and the erection of a new fire truck house, and defeated by 119 votes, the count being 77 for and 187 against. The issue of $40,000 for the remodeling of the present city hall was defeated by 37 for to 300 against.

The defeat of the bonds was largely due to a fear of an increased tax rate for a series of years and a strong opposition to increasing the bonded debt of the town, which already has several previous issues of bonds to retire.

LIQUOR VOTE IN TEXAS.

Prohibition Issue at Polls in the Lone Star State To-day.

Austin, Tex., July 24.—Intense interest is taken in the Democratic primaries which are to be held in Texas to-morrow for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various State and district offices and to decide whether the legislature shall submit to the people a constitutional amendment providing for State wide prohibition.

Gov. T. W. Campbell is opposed for nomination for a second term by R. R. Williams, a blacksmith and justice of the peace, of Comby, who was unknown to the people of the State until he was announced for the office of governor about two months ago. He has conducted a front-porch campaign, and his supporters claim that he will defeat Mr. Campbell by a big majority at to-morrow's primaries.

"JASPER WILSON, AND ONE."

Shrewd Denver Reporter.

Denver, Colo., July 24.—James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, is making a "gunshow" visit to Colorado. Secretary Wilson spent yesterday in Denver, but he did not let his presence become known to the newspaper men or to any one connected with the Federal service.

"Jasper Wilson and one, Traer, Iowa," was the inscription on the register of the Brown Palace Hotel.

The "and one" happens to be the Secretary of Agriculture. It is believed he wants to investigate recent troubles at the State Agricultural College, which gets money from the National Treasury.

The Secretary and his son left this morning and will spend ten days in the mountains on a fishing trip.

JOHN D. AS A POLITICIAN.

Maybe He'll Get the Irish Vote, and Maybe He Won't.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 24.—John D. Rockefeller has made a hit with the Irish, and it is in this view.

Mr. Rockefeller is building a new home on the top of Kykuit, and from it he wants a view that is pleasing to his eye in every respect. The Institution of Mercy Building, a home for orphan children, is just a little southwest of Mr. Rockefeller's new home, and its high roof, painted a bright red, was not a pleasing sight for his eyes, so Rockefeller made a proposition to the sisters in charge that if they would let him paint the roof green they would send him men down and do the work free.

As the roof needed painting, the sisters readily agreed, and now Mr. Rockefeller's men are at work painting the roof an emerald hue.

LIGHTNING HITS HOTEL.

Many Guests of North Carolina
Hostelry Have Narrow Escape.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 24.—The hotel at Vade Mecum Springs, a popular summer resort in Stokes County, was struck by lightning at an early hour this morning. The entire property was destroyed by the fire which ensued.

The house was filled with guests, many of whom had narrow escapes for their lives, and practically all of them were forced to make their way outdoors in their sleeping garments. The women were taken in at neighboring farm houses and furnished with sufficient apparel to tide them over the difficulty.

The loss is placed at $22,000. The principal stockholder in the property is Mrs. Sparks, of Ohio, widow of J. H. Sparks, a well-known showman, who died four years ago.

BRYAN ON HIS WAY TO CHICAGO MEETING

Campaign Manager of Democracy to Be Chosen.

OLLIE JAMES IS FAVORITE

Presidential Candidate Believed to Desire His Selection, Despite Probable Effect on Black Voters.
Charles Bryan and Others Accompany Democratic Nominee.

Lincoln, Neb., July 24.—Mr. Bryan left at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon for Chicago, to give the benefit of his advice at the Saturday conference to select officers for the campaign committee.

He is accompanied by his brother Charles, his private secretary, Robert Rose; National Committeeman Hall, of Nebraska, and a half-dozen friends and newspaper men.

Ex-Gov. Jennings, of Florida, Mr. Bryan's cousin, went with the party, and will continue the journey home, without stopping in Chicago. John S. Osborne, a member of the subcommittee of eleven that will meet in Chicago to advise with the candidates, came in during the afternoon and went on to Chicago with Mr. Bryan.

The executive committee to be selected will comprise between six and ten members, selected with special reference to their capacity for organization work, and to give all parts of the country representation.

Hall Will Be Member.

As the national committee representative from Bryan's own State, Dr. P. L. Hall, of Lincoln, is practically certain to be picked as one member of the campaign committee. It is believed that Gov. Haskell, of Oklahoma, will be the Democratic treasurer.

J. E. Lamb, of Indiana, is likely to be one of the number, as the Vice Presidential nominee, Mr. Kern, lives in that State, and naturally will want a personal representative on the committee.

Ollie James, of Kentucky, is almost certain to be another. The Atlantic coast will get at least two members. New York wants one, and Norman E. Mack is the man most likely to land. George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts, will stand an excellent chance of securing membership on the committee.

Still Silent on Chairmanship.

Mr. Bryan maintained to the end his determination not to discuss the chairmanship with the newspaper representatives. The impression here is that he still wants Ollie James to take it, despite the objections that James' selection would destroy the hope of getting the negro vote, it being charged that he has urged their disfranchisement in Kentucky.

"Mr. Bryan does not know who will be chairman," said Committeeman Hall. "Neither does anybody else. He goes to Chicago with the names of half a dozen capable Democrats to present to the committee, men who will be satisfactory to him. The collective wisdom of the committee and candidates will be exercised in getting the right man."

Regarding the chairmanship, this question was put directly to Charles W. Bryan to-day:

Charles Bryan Is Evasive.

"Is it not a fact that Ollie James could have had the place if he would take it?" "That's a pretty leading question. I don't think I have any statement to make either way," he replied.

As nearly as the matter can be measured here, it looks as if the chairmanship lies between James, Atwood, of Kansas, and Campan, of Michigan, with Lamb, of Indiana, looming up in the background as a possibility.

Letters of congratulation have reached the Presidential candidate recently from Lieut. Gov. Lewis S. Chandler of New York, Gov. George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, Bourke Cockran, of New York, and M. E. Ingalls, of Cincinnati, former president of the Big Four Railroad.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS.

Democratic Leaders in Chicago
Await Mr. Bryan.

Chicago, July 24.—Democratic leaders began gathering to-day for the meeting of the subcommittee of the Democratic National Committee with William Jennings Bryan and John W. Kern, the national candidates of that party, for the purpose of selecting a chairman of the Democratic National Committee, electing a campaign committee for the party and selecting the place for locating national headquarters.

Chairman Thomas Taggart was the first of the leaders to arrive. Nathan Cole, Jr., of California; Joseph Daniels, of New York; George E. Chamberlain, of Kansas, chairman of the Democratic executive committee in 1930, are also here.

Mr. Bryan is expected to reach Chicago to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, while Mr. Kern may reach Chicago to-night. Altogether, about twenty-five party leaders are expected to attend the meeting.

As yet nobody has vouchsafed a definite opinion as to the probable choice of Mr. Bryan for chairman of the committee.

Chairman Taggart was enthusiastic over Democratic prospects to-day.

He said: "Not in my recollection has the Democratic party been in such good fighting trim as to-day. It is united and harmonious, in my opinion. Mr. Bryan is stronger with the people than ever before, while the Republican party is weaker than it has been at any time for twenty years."

In reply to an inquiry as to the effect of the decision of the United States Appellate Court in the Standard Oil case, Mr. Bryan replied: "I do not see why it should have any effect. The result was expected. When the fine was first imposed it was recognized by thinking men as exorbitant. The big stick of the Roosevelt administration has proved to be a stuffed club, and nothing more."

Among the leaders on the ground to-day the consensus of opinion was that Secretary Try Woodson, of Kentucky, would be chosen to fill that office on the national committee another term, and that Gov. Haskell, of Oklahoma, may be selected as treasurer. John I. Martin will be re-elected sergeant-at-arms.

LAD INJURED IN RUNAWAY.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Salisbury, N. C., July 24.—Sam Pierce, aged about sixteen years, a delivery boy for the Antislavery Laundry here, was badly injured in a runaway accident in Spencer to-day.

After running a half mile with the lad, the horse upset the wagon and a heavy piece of glass fell across both the boy's legs, cutting dangerous gashes in each ankle.

HITCHCOCK READY TO RUN CAMPAIGN

He Opens Republican Headquarters in Chicago.

SQUARES OFF FOR FIGHT

Not Particular About the Cause, but
Declares Himself There to Do
Business—Speaks His Opinions
Freely About Ohio and the Rest of the United States of America.

Chicago, July 24.—Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican National Committee, arrived in Chicago to-day and called a conference of the Republican leaders in eight Central Western States to meet in Chicago to-morrow morning for the purpose of mapping out a plan of campaign for this section.

During the day Mr. Hitchcock practically selected the Republican national headquarters to be established at Chicago. He also intimated that his mind was made up on the personnel of the new Republican executive committee, including the head of the Chicago headquarters, but for various reasons declined to mention names at this time.

He'll Tell 'Em.

Mr. Hitchcock will assemble at the Annex at 10 a. m. to-morrow the State committeemen, chairmen, and secretaries of the State committees of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana, and Illinois, and tell them to prepare for a red-hot campaign this fall. He will inform them of the general conditions of the party both East and West, and ask their earnest co-operation not only with him, but with each other from this time henceforth.

Taking Some Notice.

It is understood that Mr. Hitchcock's own opinion as to the situation in the far West was amply verified at the Colorado conference, and that the Republicans have a hard battle on their hands in Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Montana, Nevada, Idaho, and Oregon, at least. Mr. Hitchcock is also aware that Mr. Bryan (the Commoner) has designed upon every State summoned to the conference to-morrow, with the possible exception of Michigan, two of these States—Missouri and Kentucky—are now put in the Bryan column, and another—Indiana—is conceded to be doubtful. Later along Mr. Hitchcock will call another conference of the Southern and Middle Western States, possibly in Chicago, but more probably in the South.

What's the Matter in Ohio?

When asked why Ohio was not brought into the proposed conference, Mr. Hitchcock said Ohio had been turned over to Arthur I. Vorys, the old Taft campaign manager in that State, and was in a class by itself. Of course it is, said an old fellow who cast his first vote for Lincoln.

The Chicago headquarters will not be formally opened until August 15. In reply to specific questions, Mr. Hitchcock declared he had nothing to say on the general run of politics, except that the far West leaders were enthusiastic and full of fight. He declined to discuss the Standard Oil decision or the repeated rumors that Secretary Dover, of the national committee, intended to resign.

Mr. Hitchcock expects to leave Chicago to-morrow night for New York. He is due in Cincinnati to attend the Taft notification ceremonies on Tuesday, and if he is delayed here, will abandon the New York trip.

MR. BRYAN WELL PLEASED.

Tells Omaha Folk the Denver Platform Will Do, All Right.

Omaha, Neb., July 24.—William J. Bryan and his party passed through Omaha to-night en route to Chicago. Mr. Bryan was met at the depot by 2,000 people, who clamored for a speech. The candidate was in a jovial mood and his three-minute talk was in that mood. Partly he said:

"All I know about this Democratic platform is what I have read in the papers. Officially, I do not know anything about it, but will be notified some time later. And while I have a pretty good idea as to who has been nominated on the Democratic ticket, all I know is what the daily press has said about it. At the same time from what I have read I am pretty well pleased with the platform, and I know that the nominee is tickled to death. He's a friend of mine."

In introducing Mr. Bryan, John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, said: "I want to introduce the next President."

The crowd laughed when Bryan said: "Williams has been introducing me that way for the past twelve years."

NO NEW MODES FOR KOREANS.

They Are Likely to Rebel if Japanese Call for Different Clothes.

It is reported that the Japanese propose to force their own style of dress upon the already rebellious Koreans. Such an attempt would probably be followed by a repetition of the serious and, in some cases, sanguinary results that arose a few years ago out of the Japanese attempt to force the shaving of the Korean topknot.

It seems to be one of the peculiar twists of the Japanese national character that the first yoke they would impose on a subject people should be in the nature of sumptuary laws. Although free themselves to borrow from outside civilization and adapt to their own purposes all that they feel necessary, even down to the plug hat of convention, the Japanese insist whenever they have the chance—and history has given them several chances at Koreans—that those whom they rule shall follow their domestic customs will-nilly.

Now the Korean hates change for change's sake first, and more bitterly he opposes change when initiated by his implacable enemy from across Tashima Straits. In the matter of his dress the Korean believes that what has been good enough for his ancestors for unnumbered hundreds of years is good enough for him, even though doctors may explain to him that half the deaths in winter come from the ridiculously inadequate linen lawn dress that he wears. His garb bears the seal of antiquity, and that's all the Korean wants.

The present Korean starched skirt and horsehair hat, shining in the semblance of a fly screen to set on a butter dish, are just what the Chinese of the Ming dynasty used to wear about 400 years ago. The skirt and bagged trousers of the Korean, man and woman alike, are white winter and summer. White is the mourning color all over Mongolian territories, and a strange story is told by the Koreans themselves to account for this mourning garb.

EBERHARD PUT UNDER GUARD

Sheriff's Deputies Keep Close Watch on Confessed Slayer.

Declares to Prison Officials He Will Never Be Put on Trial for Aunt's Murder.

New York, July 24.—A special guard of two sheriff's deputies was placed over August Eberhard, self-confessed murderer of his aunt, Mrs. Otilie Eberhard, in the Bergen County jail to-day to keep the half mad man from committing suicide. When Eberhard was locked in his cell in the jail he said to Prosecutor Koester and the sheriff, "You will never try me."

The sheriff at once took away from him everything with which he could possibly harm himself, even his suspenders. Eberhard declared he would kill himself. Eberhard was arraigned to-day before Justice of the Peace Thomas H. Cummings, in Hackensack, on a charge of murder, and committed without bail to the Bergen County jail to await the action of the coroner.

The inquest into the murder of Mrs. Eberhard will be held on Friday. Eberhard's pretty cousin, who has been in the Susquehanna Hotel, in Hackensack, since her mother's tragic death, will be a witness. She was taken from the hotel to-day to the home of Chief of Police Dunn, where she will be cared for by Mrs. Dunn.

SHERIFF ASKS FOR TROOPS.

Unable to Serve Warrant for Men
Wanted for Murder.

New Orleans, La., July 24.—Sheriff Saal, of Tangipahoa, to-day acknowledged that he was unable to keep the peace of his parish because of labor troubles, and applied to Gov. Sanders for the militia, which demand will be granted.

Both sides are armed. The Italians have taken refuge in the swamps just outside of Natchalany, where there are nearly 500 of them. About fifty of the men are well armed, and the sheriff dare not take the posse there to try and make arrests either of the Lombardi brothers, accused of murder, or of any persons assisting them. The natives are equally well armed and hold the town. Early this morning the house of an Italian in Natchalany, Nick Leslova by name, who is charged with having fired at a deputy sheriff, was blown up by the mob with dynamite. No one was hurt, as the family had left for the Italian camp in the swamp.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Friday, July 24, 1936. P. M.
A shallow barometric depression that appeared over the Central Canadian Sea Tuesday now occupies the Gulf of Mexico. It is not probable that this depression will cause serious disturbances on the Gulf coast. It will merge into a depression that covers the eastern Rocky Mountain slope and Plains States.

Local rains and thunderstorms occurred Friday in areas from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic coast, and scattered rains are likely to continue during the next two days from the Plains States eastward. Temperature changes have been unimportant.

During Saturday the winds on the Atlantic coast will be light to fresh, and easterly on the Gulf coast from fresh to east to southeast, and on the Great Lakes fresh and mostly easterly.

Steamers departing Saturday for European ports will have light to fresh easterly winds and showers to the Grand Banks.
